

A Letter from the President

Ken Mumy

Dear AQHA members,

Coming from Michigan, I look forward to heading to sunny San Antonio, March 6 – 9 for AQHA's Convention at the Grand Hyatt.

The procedures for this year's committee meetings will mirror those from last year. All meetings will be open unless otherwise specified. At times, a meeting might deal with issues of a personal nature, financial or legal matter, or other sensitive issue, and at the discretion of the committee chair, might go into an executive session with access limited to committee members. As a general rule, "Robert's Rules of Order" will be observed in all meetings, and input will be welcomed and appreciated during the comment portion of the meetings.

Your elected AQHA Directors will be voting on the items at hand, so I encourage you to contact them and visit about issues in our industry, especially if you are unable to join us in San Antonio. You can locate a list of directors and their contact information in each issue of The American Quarter Horse Journal and in the "Member Services" section of AQHA's Web site, aqha.com. Also, feel free to express your concerns in writing via e-mail to aqbamail@aqha.org.

The convention will follow a similar schedule to that of last year with the opening reception being held Friday. The Membership General Meeting will be Saturday, and the Membership Business Meeting will be held Monday morning. Committee meetings will be held Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Also, on Sunday evening we will conduct a reception for AQHA's Executive Vice President Bill Brewer to wish him well upon his retirement. Should you have any questions about the convention schedule, please call AQHA at (806) 376-4811.

This year's convention agenda will be busy, but the items discussed and decisions made will ensure the continued success of the American Quarter Horse industry.

See you in San Antonio!

Sincerely,
